The Langatun Whisky «Old Deer» is made from 100% pure barley malt. Thanks to high-quality yeast and the best European barley, it is already possible to in the first days of fermentation a rich mixture of vegetables and fruity aromas. During the time-consuming and careful double distillation, the "Old Deer" is given its incomparably soft, delicate and malty character. Aging in sherry and chardonnay casks gives the whisky its complexity and elegant aftertaste.

No compromise is made when it comes to the Goldwaescher Pure Rye Whisky: 100% Swiss rye, distilled in small batches. Exposed to changing temperatures in the warehouse, matured in new, burnt-out Swiss oak barrels. Three years in the barrel elicits the strong, spicy aroma from the Goldwaescher, with nuances of roasted aromas and fine sweetness. The Goldwaescher: A Swiss rye whisky with its own character.

Nikka operates two distilleries: one on the North Island near the mouth of the Yoichi River, where the stills are fired with coal, and one on the South Island, where a Coffey still produces whisky. For the "Nikka from the Barrel", various single malt and grain whiskies from both production facilities were used, which rested in used casks for three to six months after the merger. The whisky with its strong character displays aromas of cloves, cinnamon, oranges, raspberries and walnuts.

In 1801, brothers John & James Chivas opened a delicatessen in Aberdeen. There they offered various delicacies from all over the world, but there was no whisky that met the brothers' requirements - so they created their own blend. In 1891, Chivas Regal was developed.

The "Chivas Regal 12 Years" is a 12-year matured blend of various Scottish single malt whiskies as well as selected grain whiskies. The main component is a Scotch from the Strathisla distillery.

Johnnie Walker Black Label

15

Black Label is a sophisticated blend of around 40 single malts and whiskies made from Korn, sourced from all regions of Scotland. None of these whiskies are younger than 12 years old. Aromatic complexity in which the taste of green apple meets the notes of vanilla, smoke and peat. It is full-bodied with a long and warming finish and is generally served neat or with a few ice cubes.

Johnnie Walker Platinum

The Johnnie Walker Platinum Label 18-Year-Old is the successor to the discontinued Gold Label. The age indication indicates that this blend of malt and grain whiskies has at least 18 years of maturation behind it. During this time, an unmistakable character of the individual whiskies has developed and brought it to perfection by the master blenders of Johnnie Walker. The aroma of this excellent blend is round and complex, sweet and malty, with notes of vanilla and nuts - with pleasant smokiness. The taste is balanced and mild, a perfect combination of honey and smoke

Single malts from the Highlands are whiskies that are 'born' in one of Scotland's most dramatic and magical regions. In a landscape overgrown with heather, permeated by rugged and rugged mountains, there are countless distilleries that create their special single malt whiskies against this picturesque backdrop. In total, the Highlands offer 4 sub-regions (Northern, Eastern, Central and Western Highlands) and thus a wide range of varied, warm and well-rounded single malt whiskies.

Islay whisky comes from the wild, stormy and beautiful Scottish islands. These include the Inner Hebrides and Northern Islands. Only recently, the Icelands were stripped of their own status as a whisky region. Iceland whisky is now part of the Highlands, according to the official Scottish whisky association, the Whisky Association. There is no clear style to be assigned to the region.

The spirits are strong, smoky and phenolic. Sea and salt also influence the taste. But spicy honey, fruits and a gentle sweetness also find their way into the Iceland whisky. The islands include Orkney and Skye, Mull, Arran and Jura. The island of Islay is also part of the region, geographically speaking. Nevertheless, it is considered an independent whisky region in expert circles, as eight active distilleries with their very own style distill on it.
